At almost 2,500 square feet, the new, permanent showroom nearly doubles the size of Twin-Star's original space in Building C. Twin-Star also doubled its High Point space in Plaza Suites for last October's market.

The move accommodates Twin-Star's growing line--the company recently added gaming consoles to its Tresanti line of media units and wine coolers. Twin-Star brands also include ClassicFlame electric fireplaces. The new gaming consoles are designed to enhance the organization of gaming components within media consoles and to tap into an industry whose revenues are projected to double by 2011, according to PricewaterhouseCoopers and ABLresearch.

Twin-Star Senior Vice President Andy Bandremer said he's "thrilled about our move to Building A, and we look forward to wowing our existing customers with new technology and designs and to meeting new prospects and introducing them to our unique product selection."
